SENATOR GORE WANTS LOBBYING LOOKED INTO. SENATE PASSES MEASURE

His Statement Came As a Surprise to the Entire Senate When Made Public.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—Senator Gore, who yesterday declared he had been offered a bribe in connection with the bill affecting the sale of the Choctaw Indian lands, today offered a resolution for an investigation of lobbying in connection with that measure.

Senator Gore stated that he had been offered fifty thousand dollars for his vote and also to withdraw his bill which would render null and void all contracts with individual Indians regarding the coal and asphalt lands of the strip of territory in question.

The contracts in question are with members of the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes and are known as the Murray contracts, being held by a lawyer named John F. McMurray, whose fees, it is said, will aggregate $3,000,000 if the resolution from the senate amendment to the bill is sustained.

Charges Brought in House. Senator Gore said he was informed that a similar bribe proposition was made yesterday to a member of the house. This member, it was stated subsequently, was Representative Cramer of Oklahoma.

Senator Gore, in addressing the senate, asserted that an ex-convict from Nebraska and an ex-convict from Kansas were interested in the contracts and that a powerful lobby had been in Washington in the interest of these contracts.

The senate immediately concurred in the resolution of Senator Gore and an investigation will take place at once which will be most sweeping in its character and scope.

FEAR RIOTS IN MEXICO TODAY

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT ON ACCOUNT OF ELECTION

Ramon Corral Who is Virtually Real Ruler of Republic Will Probably Be Re-Elected As Vice President

City of Mexico, July 25.—In every part of the republic extraordinary precautions have been taken by the government to prevent riots or other disorders during the election. In the presidential campaign anti-administration riots have been frequent in many parts of the country. The action of President Diaz in practically forcing the nomination of Ramon Corral to the vice presidency and the treatment accorded Francisco I. Madero, the anti-Diaz candidate, have increased the fury of the opposition and an attempt at open rebellion would not be surprising.

The situation is all the more interesting in view of the advanced age of President Diaz—he is now past eighty—and the additional circumstances that the people of the country are much divided in their preference for his successor. It is acknowledged by all that so long as Diaz lives and will accept the office he will be the chief executive of the nation. Politics have long been dormant in Mexico because Diaz has ever been the universal choice of the people for the president; the people love, respect and honor him, and they desire that he remain at the head of the national government so long as he lives.

Several years ago President Diaz thought that Mexico should have a vice president, and so Congress provided for that office. Don Ramon Corral came to the capital to fill the chair created. It later appeared that while Corral had many staunch friends and was strongly entrenched in official circles, he had a sufficient number of enemies to create an opposition to his candidacy for re-election as vice president. In today's election and to bring about a situation that is unusual in Mexico, as national politics have been little discussed on account of the generally accepted and normally candidacy and election of Diaz.

In a famous interview that President Diaz gave a few years ago, the chief executive said he believed the time had come when Mexico should have great political parties that would bring great men before the people in an intelligent way. This remark was doubtless made because the President has seen since he had been in office a middle class spring up in the country in which the government. Years ago there were only two classes—the rich and mighty and the poor and weak. But today Mexico has a great middle class composed of educated and intelligent workmen, trades people, shop owners, etc. This class has begun to take an active interest in politics and in the great public issues confronting the country. While loyal to Diaz they are in general opposed to his policy of dictating his successor in the presidency.

The opposition at the start took up General Bernardo Reyes, the rich and powerful governor of Nuevo Leon, as the most suitable candidate to oppose Ramon Corral for the vice presidency. This offer is one of the highest importance in the general understanding that the vice president will be called upon to succeed Diaz in the event of the latter's death or retirement. But President Diaz, in the interests of his proteges and favorite, Corral, disposed of Reyes by giving him a foreign mission and practically banishing him from the field of home politics. Reyes was extremely popular with the army, which fact made him all the more dangerous in his opposition to the administration. In order to place Mr. Corral in touch with the military branch of the government and increase his popularity with the officers and men of the army, President Diaz has given him practical charge of the campaign against the malcontents in northern Mexico.

In view of the present conditions it is difficult to foresee any other result of the national election than the reelection of Corral as vice president and his ultimate succession to Diaz. For several years, according to general report and belief the vice president has been performing virtually all the duties of the president of the republic. On account of the state of his health President Diaz has practically retired from active duty and is letting his mantle fall on Corral's shoulders by degrees so that when he finally gives up office there will be no trouble in having the vice president recognized as his successor. Of late it has been growing more and more difficult for any one other than the President to get a hearing in the business, every-day life of the country. In official circles he has gradually come to be recognized as the real power and Diaz the shadow.

CONGRESS ENDS TO-DAY, TAFT WINS AND LOSES

President Gets Many Laws, But Specific Legislative Plans Are Not Carried Out.

Washington, June 25.—The first session of the sixty-first congress will probably end tonight after making a remarkable record in a legislative way.

Despite the conflicts that have waged between regular Republicans, insurgent Republicans and all kinds of Democrats, the record of laws actually passed has seldom, if ever, been equaled.

President Taft's legislative program has gone through to a large extent, but in many cases. That is to say that, while laws have been enacted on the subjects he urged, the details were worked out by congress on lines often far different from that specifically recommended by the president and his advisors. This is especially true of the railroad bill, the postal savings bill, the conservation bill, the campaign publicity bill and other measures. The anti-injunction bill was cast aside altogether, as was the ship subsidy bill, the department of health bill, the Alaska reorganization bill and several minor conservation measures.

The "reform" bills for which President Taft stood sponsor and which were passed are:

Railroad rate revision bill.

New Mexico and Arizona statehood.

Postal savings banks.

Giving president sway in conserving public domain.

Publicity of campaign contributions.

Creating a bureau of mines.

Extending activities of tariff board.

Suppression of white slave traffic.

New tariff law for Philippines.

Partial prohibition in Hawaiian islands.

Providing for economy in government departments.

Taft bills that failed:

Anti-injunction curbing federal courts.

Shipping subsidy legislation.

Alaska reorganization legislation.

Panama reorganization of zone laws.

Creating department of health.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

This is a story of a woman's steady courage.

She is a jailbird.

For several years she suffered the affliction of a drunken husband, who finally left her the heritage of bitter memories and two small children.

To support herself and little family she took charge of a building. That was twenty years ago. She is still mistress of the place.

Out of her earnings she gave to her children what she was denied—a common school education. And, besides, she threw up a dike against a possible flood of disaster—a neat savings bank account.

The flood came.

Inheriting disease from the father, the children died, one after the other, shortly after they had reached their majority.

The illness, the expense of the funerals and the two bedridden sides by side in the cemetery took the woman's entire savings.

She went back to work the next day after each of the funerals, her face a shade graver, but with a sad smile on her features for those who knew her.

And now she has thrown up one more barrier against misfortune in another little bank account. And always she is welcome everywhere because of the sunshine in her face.

Never in twenty years has she whined or whimpered or obtained her troubles.

Asked one day the secret of her brave fight, she replied:

"It never changes a thing to complain, and people do not like it."

A commonplace tale?

It is not. It is a story of unusual bravery and of a woman who, though uneducated, is in the possession of an unusual philosophy. Read it again.

"It never changes a thing to complain, and people do not like it."

About the most useless habit one may acquire is that of complaining of one's difficulties. The condition is merely made worse by self centered whining and moaning.

And certainly "people do not like it."

Who is to forever finding fault with his situation in life becomes an intolerable bore. If he can help himself he should do so; if he cannot help himself he should grin and bear it—and keep still.

The world is quick to respond to the plea of real distress, but it has no patience with a quitter and a chronic grumbler.

Let the whiner scrub floors like this little woman—and smile.

GENTLE SEX SERVE AS JURORS.

Six Women in Colorado Adjudge Young Girl Insane.

Hahn's Peak, Col., June 25.—Among the first women-juries in a court of record in the United States must be counted that which was assembled in the county court by Judge Morning to judge the sanity of Elizabeth Hutchinson.

Hahn's Peak was almost wiped out by a recent fire and the court could not locate enough eligible men in the town to make up the necessary jury of six.

He accordingly summoned for jury service six women, who were duly sworn, heard the evidence, and adjudged Miss Hutchinson insane.

FALLING BRIDGE SINKS A TUG.

Hundreds of Excursionists Thrown Into Panic When Structure Falls.

Melbourn City, Ind., June 25.—Several hundred Chicago excursionists were thrown into a panic and five persons narrowly escaped with their lives when the steamer United States, owned by the Indiana Transportation company, crashed into a large bascule bridge and toppled it over onto the tugboat Republic.

The Republic was sunk in 20 feet of water and was pinned to the bottom of the harbor by a big leaf of the structure, and the excursion vessel was badly damaged about the upper decks. The bridge was damaged to the extent of fully $25,000.

Left $17,000,000 to His Family.

Bethlehem, Pa., June 25.—Under the will of Elsie P. Wilbur, financier and once president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, an estate of $17,000,000 is bequeathed to his family. So far as known there was no gift to a public or charitable institution.

Date of event will be announced later.

THE CHARLOS HEIGHTS AND CURLEW ORCHARDS In the Bitter Root Valley, Montana

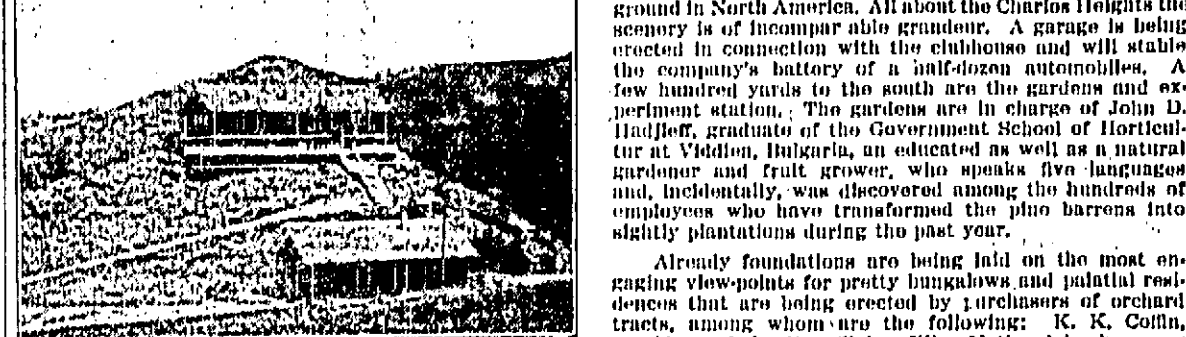

REPRINTED FROM THE WESTERN NEWS, HAMILTON, MONTANA.

NOTE:—The fact that quite a number of local people have bought orchards in the Bitter Root Valley and that others are interested, indicates that the following article will be appreciated.

Yonahdina resident, absorbed in his own affairs, scarcely realizes the transformation that is being wrought throughout the Bitter Root valley, whilst numerous development projects are unfolding.

Typical projects and ranking among the foremost, are the orchard development communities established at Charlus Heights, some eight miles southwest of Hamilton, and at Curlew, just west of Victor, by the O. W. Kerr company.

This enterprising company has already purchased five thousand acres of the choicest fruit land in entire Bitter Root valley, fifteen hundred acres of which have already been planted with trees—comprising a goodly percentage of the fifteen thousand acres that are being planted this season and which will meet materially in verifying the prediction that the output of Bitter Root orchards will soon be measured by trainloads instead of carloads, as at present.

One year ago last fall Mr. John M. Downs of the O. W. Kerr company, one of the biggest land agencies in America, a concern that has sold a half-million acres of Alberta, Canada, land, while scouting about "looking for new worlds to conquer," went to Spokane to attend the National Apple show. He looked over the exhibits carefully, being attracted by the Bitter Root exhibit among others.

Immediately after the show closed, Mr. Downs went to the Hood River, Yakima and Wenatchee valleys, coming at last to the Bitter Root. An experienced dealer in realty, he investigated conditions in each of the valleys very thoroughly from the standpoint of the cold-blooded man of business looking for investments. After "sizing up" each locality and weighing its possibilities, taking the climate, water, soil, environment and everything into consideration, Mr. Downs unhesitatingly yielded the palm to the Bitter Root. His decision was confirmed by Mr. O. W. Kerr, president of the company, who has visited every nook and corner of the country and whose holdings have stretched from Canada to Louisiana.

In the following month, December, 1908, Mr. Downs bought 1,000 acres on Charlus Heights and has had personal supervision of the Bitter Root projects ever since.

The holdings of the O. W. Kerr company in the valley have increased to 4,380 acres at Charlus and 500 acres at Curlew. The company exercised great care in securing high-grade water rights, consisting of 310 miner's inches of the first right in the great Lost Horse creek, which have been adjudicated, together with other rights in Hayes and Camus creeks, and reservoir sites on Camus and Lost Horse creek and Twin lakes; also 2,200 inches from Bear Creek, Idaho. The Curlew land is irrigated from Big creek, which carries an abundance of water.

Just one year ago, when the company began its development work, much of the Charlus bench lands was covered with virgin timber and stumps. In this brief period the timber has been manufactured into lumber, some of it going into the construction of Charlus Lodge, which is being built on a high plateau, overlooking the valley in all directions, like a mighty sentinel guarding the narrow defile from which streams the beautiful Bitter Root river, the railroad, the county roads and two big ditches conveying water to the bench lands along each side of the river—in Charlus Lodge, an elegantly furnished clubhouse, headquarters of the company and where its guests receive as most hospitable welcome. In the river and nearby creeks, the finest trout-fishing grounds and twenty miles away, at the farther end of Lost Horse trail, spreads the Clearwater, the greatest natural game preserve and hunting ground in North America. All about the Charlus Heights the scenery is of incomparable grandeur. A garage is being erected in connection with the clubhouse and will stable the company's battery of a half-dozen automobiles. A few hundred yards to the south are the gardens and experiment station. The gardens are in charge of John D. Haddler, graduate of the Government School of Horticulture at Yiddon, Bulgaria, an educated as well as a natural gardener and fruit grower, who speaks five languages and, incidentally, was discovered among the hundreds of employees who have transformed the pine barrens into slightly plantations during the past year.

Already foundations are being laid on the most engaging view-points for pretty bungalows and palatial residences that are being erected by purchasers of orchard tracts, among whom are the following: K. K. Coffin, president of the Eau Claire, Wis., National bank, owner of 108 acres, will build a home costing from $8,000 to $10,000; Mr. Salisbury, of Madison, Wis., is now on the ground and will build a $60,000 residence; Mr. Williams, also of Wisconsin, has lumber on the ground and is preparing to build a nice home; Mr. Upton, of Minneapolis, will build during the summer.

Charlus Heights has been subdivided into ten-acre tracts, to be developed and cared for by the company for a period of five years. The general slope is eastward, insuring perfect drainage. The soil deep and rich and free from stones, is of a decomposed granite formation; these benches are exactly similar and of the same altitude as the Camus bench, where are located the Flatt, Goris, Ostergren, Olthoff and Lake Como orchards.

The company has established its own nursery, where five hundred thousand grafts of proven varieties, selected from scions grown in the Flatt orchards, have been planted this spring under the supervision of Mr. Flatt, and will be the source of supply for future orchards.

The policy of the company is to "deliver the goods" in all its dealings. To insure this, a portion of the old Lauritzen orchard on Charlus Heights and 17 acres of the Curlew orchard, big bearing trees of inferior varieties, have been pulled up bodily by means of traction steam engines, and the land will be replanted. The same policy is followed in the construction of reservoirs, ditches, laterals, and roads. An automobile road, for example, four and a half miles in length, is being projected to reach every part of Charlus Heights. Already the community is served by telephone, telegraph and rural mail service. A railway station will be built at once and stores, a schoolhouse and churches will quickly follow. It is also planned to develop one thousand horsepower from the high line upper ditch to furnish light and power for the community.

A happy, prosperous community, supplied with all modern facilities, is in rapid process of fruition.

FEAR FOR HEIR OF MILLIONS.

Grandson of Thomas F. Walsh is Guarded Constantly by Police.
Bar Harbor, Me., June 25.—A corps of policemen and detectives are guarding the "100,000,000 baby" of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bonie McLean against any chance of kidnapping and it would be almost impossible for anyone to run off with the grandson of the late multi-millionaire, Thomas F. Walsh.
An attempt to kidnap the child is said to have been made in Washington and since coming home the McLeans have taken precautions to prevent trespassing on their place and have a relay of watchers who protect the child day and night. A policeman walks by the side of the nurse when she takes the child for a ride in the perambulator.

Advertising As Help In General Economy

That a man who advertises his business properly is not only a distributor, but also helps the public generally to economize, was the statement made yesterday by Arthur Hirsland of New York in an address before the Chicago Advertising association.

This is certainly true in my case, for I know that I have saved my patients in the aggregate many thousands of dollars compared to what their dental work would have cost them if they had gone elsewhere.

And then, also, think of the pain I am daily saving people.

It pays in many ways to let me do your dental work.

Beeswax in Cracks.
Ugly cracks or splits in furniture can easily be filled in with beeswax so that the marks will hardly show. Furniture dealers cover up many blemishes in this way. Slightly soften the beeswax until it becomes like putty, then press it firmly into the cracks and smooth the surface over with a thin knife. Sandpaper the surrounding wood and work some of the dust into the beeswax. This gives a flush to the wood, and when it is varnished the cracks will have disappeared. Putty is sometimes used in the same way, but it soon dries and falls out, while beeswax will remain in practically forever.

CLINTON MAN WAS TERRIBLY BURNED

Charles Goodsell, Blacksmith, May Lose Eyesight As Result of Explosion of Molten Metal.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Clinton, June 25.—Charles Goodsell, a blacksmith employed by F. H. Ledley, was very seriously and painfully burned while at work yesterday morning and may lose the sight of one of his eyes as the result of the accident.

He was preparing to fabricate a piece of machinery when, for some inexplicable reason, the molten metal exploded, covering his face, neck and the fore part of his head. Large pieces of the hot metal lodged in his eyes, one of which, it is feared, is so badly burned that sight cannot be restored.

The injured man was taken to the office of Drs. Parker and Thomas, but both were away and no other medical aid was to be obtained in the village. After waiting a couple of hours, during which time Mr. Goodsell suffered the most intense pain, he was taken to Beloit to a hospital by M. M. Murry.

The many friends of venerable Dr. Crandall will be pained to learn that he has been very poorly for the past few days. He suffered a sinking spell Thursday night which came near being fatal.

Charles Lee took W. C. Bradley, F. J. Barker and G. W. Anderson to Dolan in his auto yesterday to witness a ball game.

Expert Advice About Soupmaking.

Careme, a celebrated French cook, says of soup: "The good housewife puts her meat into an earthen stock pot and pours on cold water in the proportion of two quarts of water to three pounds of beef. She sets it on the back of the stove. As the water heats it dilates the muscular fibers of the flesh by dissolving the gelatinous matter which covers them and allows the albumen to detach itself easily and rise to the surface in light foam or scum, while the osmazone, which is the savory juice of the meat dissolving little by little, adds flavor to the broth. By this simple process of slow boiling or simmering the housewife obtains a savory and nourishing broth and a boiled meat, which latter is tender and of good flavor."

As to the reverse way of boiling Careme says: "If you place the soup pot on too hot a fire it boils too soon. The albumen coagulates and hardens. The water, not having the necessary time to penetrate the meat, hinders the savory juices from disengaging itself, and the result is you have only a hard piece of boiled meat and a broth without flavor or goodness. A little fresh water poured into the pot at intervals helps the scum to rise more abundantly."

Got Rid of Snake.
A farmer's wife near Gerington, N. S. W., saw a snake eating bread from her baby's hand. She put out a doll next day with poisoned bread in its hand and in the evening found a dead snake in the yard.

REID MAY BE RECALLED FROM COURT OF ST. JAMES.—FAIRBANKS MAY GET APPOINTMENT.
Latest Picture of Ex-Vice President Fairbanks as he Appears Today.

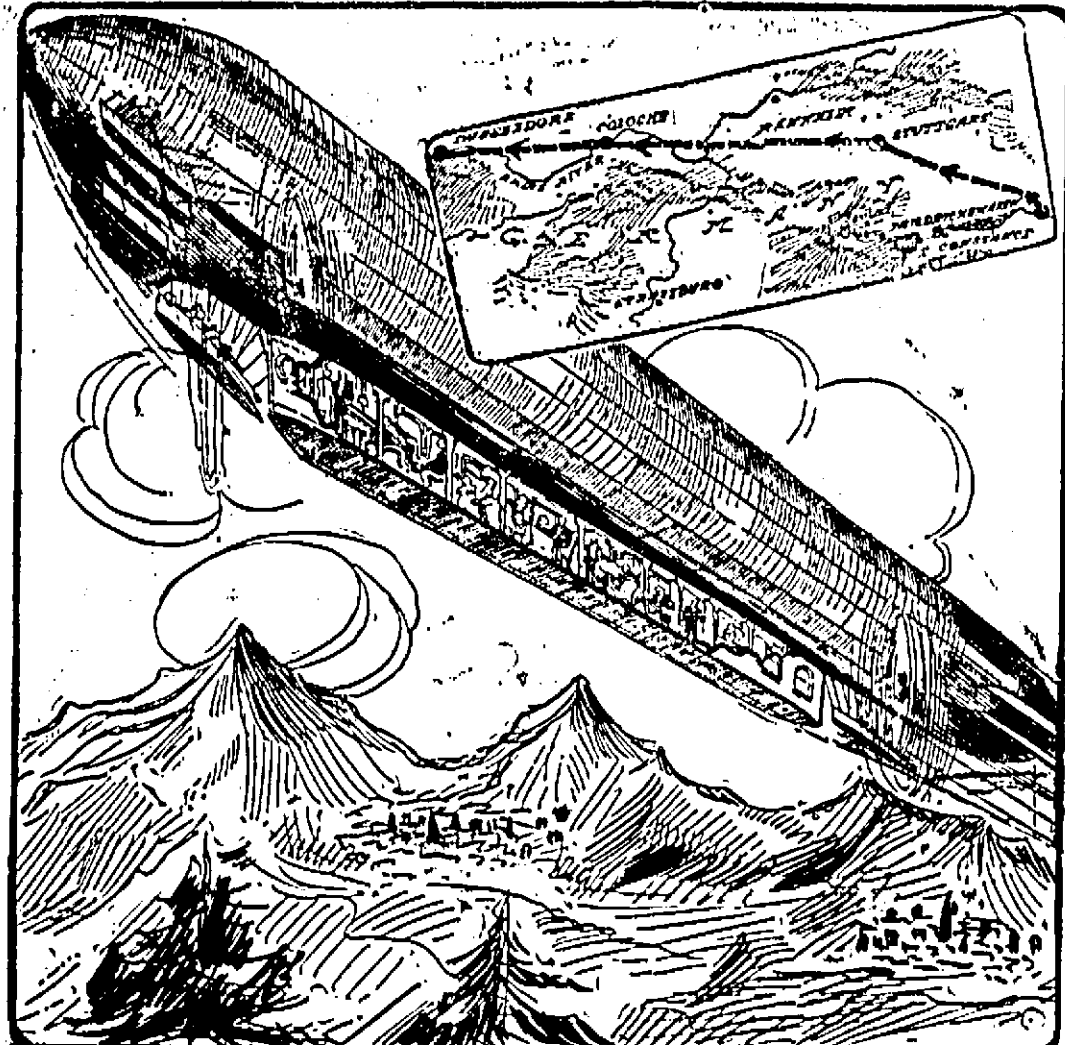

Washington, D. C.—The days of service of Whitelaw Reid as American ambassador to the court of St. James are numbered. This information, learned tonight, comes from a source in possession of both American and British sides of the case.

The informant declares that King George and Mr. Reid, while on cordial terms, are not close to the degree of official intimacy expected between the king and an ambassador. In support of this, it is pointed out that at all court functions given by the late King Edward, Ambassador Reid was seldom in the group that surrounded the Prince of Wales.

King George is against making of the British court a coterie to the social ambitions of rich foreigners, and is said to have often remonstrated with his father for the way presentations were engineered. King George already is eliminating all foreigners from his entourage. He is to retain only those who have married into the British nobility, and this rule also will be followed by the queen. In the list of his court attendants published yesterday John Ward, Mr. Reid's son-in-law, was the only American retained, and he is an "extra equerry."

As a result of the new king's wishes, the state department has found it necessary to bring to the president's attention the imperative change before the close of the period of mourning in November. It has been said that the reason President Taft has so long delayed making a change is his desire to wait until after the elections, so as to see who will be frozen out. The understanding is that Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice-president, will see his way clear to accept the ambassadorship, which indirectly has been offered to him. Mr. Knox is in favor of Mr. Fairbanks and so is Senator Root of New York. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is also considered for the place.

Mr. Fairbanks, who is now living at his old home in Indianapolis, after returning from a year's trip around the world, has recently been described as its maiden trip to Stuttgart, Mannheim, Cologne and Düsseldorf Wednesday. It is the first passenger airship having a definite schedule and operating in direct competition with railroad trains. Already the passenger list exceeds the accommodations and it is thought the venture will prove a paying one.

The schedule of the air-liner, like that of the ships of the sea, will be subject at all times to weather conditions, but it is confidently expected that it will not vary more than that of the great ocean liners on such account. The time of the first voyage which fixes the running time of the airship, was approximately 33 miles an hour.

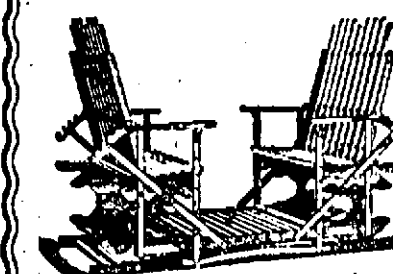

There was no attempt to make a speed record on this trip, but later the speed may be increased as the engines are tried out and the pilots become more certain in their mastery of the craft.

Large crowds welcomed the air-liner at the cities included in her schedule and the initial and other trips since then have been witnessed by many thousands along the route.

Her Diaphragmatic Resistance.
The wonderful endurance power of women is evidenced again by the fact that a husky New York college man, who was rehearsing in a girl's part in a play, fell in a fit and remained unconscious for some time, and for no other reason than that he had been wearing a tightly laced corset for a couple of hours.

The Car Which Won the Two Severest Tests

The hardest road that a car ever travels is the road to enduring success. On the road, no other car ever equaled the Overland record. The steepest climb that a car ever made is to the dominant place now held by the Overland. Those are the real tests of motor cars—the two supreme ordeals. And, from a hundred rivals, the Overland won them both.

THE ONLY REAL TEST.

The success of a car in the hands of its users is the only real test of an automobile.

What matters the records of cars specially built, and driven by the fastest of experts? Your car will be a stock, model—its driver, at best, a comparative novice. What you want to know is what stock cars will do in the hands of men like you.

The sales records show what Overlands have done—the every-day models in the hands of every-day men. One car has sold others, and the others sold others, until a pretty large share of the demand of the country is centered around this remarkable car.

The 380 Overlands put out the first year sold 4,075 Overlands the next. And those 4,075 Overlands brought orders from dealers for 16,000 Overlands for this season's delivery before the new models came out.

When a man bought an Overland he said to his fellows: "Here is the one simple, the one trouble-proof car. By all means, get one like it." And others ordered cars like it—about twice as fast as we could supply them.

HOW TO MEASURE MERIT

It is quite impossible—even for experts—to judge any car by description. An utter failure and a proved success may seem much alike in the catalog. They may look much alike on the floor.

Many a car has killed its trade in one season, because of some hidden fault. The cars were beautiful, and their specifications—part by part—compared well with the best of cars. But there were errors and weaknesses which the maker himself had failed to discover. And, when those defects developed, owners said to non-owners, "Never buy a car like mine."

The only safe guide in buying a car is the record of that car in the hands of its users. Claims and descriptions may be very misleading. The troublesome car and the trouble-proof look much alike in print.

They who best know what you want to know are the men who have run the cars. Choose the car which sells best where best known. Buy the car which outsells all the others where there has been a year of comparison. For owners are wise in these days, and they don't remain long mistaken.

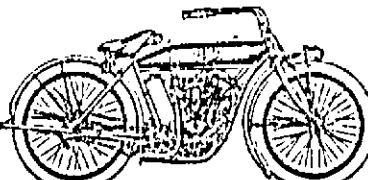

They who measure merit in this way need not know all the facts, must invariably choose the Overland. That is the meaning which our amazing success has in your choice of a car.

MAKE YOUR OWN FLY GRASER.

There are on the market a lot of patent fly grasers. Just like most patent stuff, it costs you double money. We have sold different makes from one to two dollars a gallon, yet nothing does better work at any price than this: Take one gallon of Cresolol and three gallons of common kerosene, mix as you want it to use, spray or put on with a brush. Keeps off flies, bats, crabs, is healing, antiseptic, and costs about 45 cents a gallon instead of one dollar or more. Come in, talk to Mr. Plonk, our Grand Old Pharmacy and Chemist, about this or other stock remedies. He can save you half your money. Budget Drug Co., Milwaukee and River streets.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WHILE, aged three, died of summer complaint, caused by bad milk poisoned by flies.

You would think that an extraordinary epitaph if you saw it on a tombstone, wouldn't you?

And yet, if tombstones should take to telling truth, that, or some variation of it, would be placed on a good many of them.

In a circular sent out by one of the most active state boards of health in the United States, that epitaph printed upon a tombstone is displayed in the margin. Besides that, there are also most vividly portrayed a few of the habits and habits of our friend, the homely, the birthplace in the manure heap, the garbage can, or as a magnet in the corpse of some animal, is most faithfully pictured. His subsequent parades across the unweaved food in our pantries and tables, or across the fruit at the fruit stand, is elaborately set forth. His charming habit of flying straight from the consumptive or typhoid patient to the baby's bedside, or off all the fifth and germ he has gathered in the first spot in the second, is made pleasantly graphic.

You think all this description needlessly disgusting, no doubt. The circular has provided for that state of mind, for besides the pictures is printed:

"Look at the marginal illustrations. They are disgusting, it is true. So are flies. The disgust that your stomach receives through your eyes is as nothing, however, to the probable and possible benefit which you will receive by ridding your house of these verminous pests."

I wish I might have several million of these circulars printed and one of them tucked up in every home in the land.

I think if I could accomplish that I should be doing more to save life than by endowing half a dozen hospitals.

The season of the fly is at hand. Why not make up your mind here and now that there shall be fewer flies in your house than ever before, and that those who do escape your vigilance shall have less chance to contaminate you?

How can you accomplish this? Well, here are a few suggestions: Look after the garbage can daily. See that it is carefully sprinkled with lime or kerosene oil and effectually covered.

Never leave any garbage in your sink any moment longer than necessary.

See that any manure box near your home is made fly-tight and frequently emptied and sprinkled with lime and sand.

Keep flies from the sick, especially those with contagious diseases. If necessary, cover them with a mosquito netting, as you do a baby.

Of course, have your house thoroughly screened.

Do not leave the food in pantry or icebox, or even on the table, uncovered any minute longer than necessary. A single fly speck may contain 3,000 germs.

Devote a few minutes daily to a personal battle with those flies who have gotten in despite all your precautions.

"All this fuss over such a little thing as a fly is absurd," I know some one is saying.

But some night when you watch helpless and agonized above the sick bed of your baby, perhaps you won't call that which may have caused the illness a little thing.

Fads and Fashions

New York, June 25.—All early season predictions to the contrary notwithstanding, this summer promises to be a great season for blouses of every description. The designers and makers of blouses have arrayed themselves in producing models of exquisite beauty and attractiveness. Never have they turned out models of the simpler type that showed such variety and originality. Never were the summer tailored blouses so quaint and dainty.

The very general use of a touch of color with the white has much to do with this result. In an all white lingerie blouse, still the most practical thing in the summer outfit because it lathers more satisfactorily than the models containing color, fluesness and elaboration are usually necessary to the most pronounced simplicity and yet, be extremely chic. The white blouse embroidered in color is the most expensive of the class. Unfortunately the prettiest of the white and colored models, even with little or no embroidery, are also quite expensive, as only those turned out by the very best designers are particularly effective.

There are many ways employed to introduce the color note. The simplest fashion is to use tiny hints of color on the edges of white frills. Where the Tolly frill and cuffs are used the color appears on them. Where there is a high collar, long sleeves and merely a front frill, the narrow hem of color borders collar, cuffs and frill. White batiste, linen or lawn striped in color and trimmed in narrow bands of solid color makes a smart tailored blouse, and the designers use in similar fashion these sheer materials with white ground and any sort of tiny design in color. Blue and white, lavender and white, yellow brown and white, buff and white, rose and white and black and white are the colorings most often seen in these blouses. Green and white is also used and is extremely cool looking, but green cannot be depended upon as well in laundering as can the other colors, and perhaps it is for that reason that it is not used generally.

The idea of trimming in an unbroken line down the shoulder and outside of sleeve is decidedly popular, corresponding to the craze for sleeve cut in one with the bodice and without seams in the frills. Sometimes the trimming is only in the form of long epaulettes running down a little over the top of the sleeve. Fine trimmings in white with design of color and embroidery or applied bands of color makes very good looking blouses. Persian designs in fine sheer cotton voile and other cottons come in charming colorings and are also used by the blouse designers for simple models untrimmed save for white collar and cuff frills edged by narrow bands of the color predominating in the Persian stuff or of black.

Which blouses of silk in stripes of color and white are always cool and beautiful and very good looking too. They are better for traveling than flannel blouses because they do not muss or soil so readily. This season they come in prettier colorings and stripes than ever before, and every woman should have at least one of these silk blouses in her summer outfit.

This is a season of youthful modes. The short skirts which have invaded all departments of dress, thanks to the verge of the scant skirt bottom and the impossibility of reconciling extremes in that line with trains, have much to do with this youthful air and the trim bolts and short coats add to that impression. Tailored costumes of the softest, lightest weight silks, delicious little frocks of chiffon, albat, mousseline with more-silk trills for coats, are numerous in the shops and with them supplementary wraps are needed for comfort. Like all enveloping coats serve the purpose in some cases, but that did not satisfy the Parisian women of fashion. They demanded wraps that would give a little added warmth, but might also be coquettishly draped about the shoulders and readily thrown off. Many such wraps have been created by the noted designers.

A very wide scarf of some supple silk lined with silk mousseline in another shade of the same color or another color, the coloring harmonizing with the color scheme of the toilet, is bordered by a very narrow line of sable or other dark fur or even by dark marabout, and furnishes more warmth than would be supposed. Even two thicknesses of silk mousseline made in a very wide long scarf and bordered on three sides by a wide band of black satin can be comforting on a cool day. One of the most coquettish scarves evolved so far is made of enormously wide, very supple velvet ribbon or plain velvet, lined with satin, drawn in at the ends and finished by huge tassels and trimmed around the part which will encircle the neck by a soft ruche of white ermine, held at each side of the front by a chain of satin.

THE HALF WAY PLACE.

BY MARY HURSHILL.

The half way place—that sounds like the beginning of a sermon to the middle-aged. Young men and women should be followed by relatives and other banes of the young-old.

And it is in a way a wrinkle remover that is meant, for the middle ground referred to is the place where you meet the person with whom you have had a difference of opinion—and surely that is a place for wrinkles, new and old.

"I never give in," I always hear my own way. "I never own that I am sorry." How often such sentences are heard! The very young think it is a mark of strength of character to never own themselves in the wrong.

Why should it be hard to say "I was wrong, I am sorry, dear?" The reason is not very hard to find. It is the attitude of the person of whom one is begging pardon. I have known men to grant a pardon to the loving woman, who has perhaps purged her soul to ask forgiveness for a fault committed by his meanness, in a tone and manner to affront an angel—and we are not many of us angels.

I have known mothers to forgive sons and daughters honestly and truly, but who have been impelled by some force of the evil one to nag, and repeat, and go over the sorrowful story until impatience makes the child commit further faults and the position thus become almost impossible.

The art of forgiving forgivingly, and not triumphantly, is not so difficult if one would only practice it. The trouble with most of us is that we are so busy fitting shoes to the feet of others that we do not see that our own feet need attention. We are rather accustomed to thinking of ourselves with the tender pity of understanding. We know how honestly we intend to do right, that we almost convince ourselves that the offending person must be wrong.

Could we look in the heart of that other—friend or foe, husband or wife, or child—we would find there the same high and honorable purpose. The trouble comes from a different point of view.

Said a child the other day, "No, it is not wrong for that girl to do that, because she thinks it is all right. It would be wrong for me, because I think it is wrong."

Then why not try to make excuses for the other person when a difference of opinion arises?

Life is so short that it is really not worth while having bitter words and—worse still—bitter thoughts about little every day matters.

Try to fit to your eyes the spectacles of loving understanding and be guided by what you see. But—whether it is for the purpose of forgiving or being forgiven—meet someone where on the plane of common sense and good feeling. Be just and at the same time be generous, whether you are suing for pardon or are granting it.

We cannot always be right. We would not be human did we not err sometimes, but we can always be free to ask forgiveness if our regret is genuine—at least we can feel free to do so if the person of whom we have to sue is not one of those superior persons that make it almost a crime to ask for forgiveness.

Since we are all prone to error let us not assume such lofty attitudes. We may have to say we are sorry—or worse still, we may go about with a hungry ache in our hearts, because it is too late to make the confession of our shortcomings.

SIMPLE AND COMFORTABLE.

Simplicity and comfort combine in above model for a neat and serviceable summer frock. The unique feature is the seamless bodice, cut all in one piece. This is lined, but the skirt is unlined. Collar and cuffs are of killed muslin. Either wash material or any of the pretty new soft silks may be used with good success in carrying out this design.

FASHIONABLE SUMMER COAT.

Here is a model of the fashionable summer coat of pongee and named the "Trousseau Coat." It comes direct from London and is wonderfully smart. This one of natural tone pongee is trimmed with silk soutache, in same color and pongee-covered buttons. The belt is of wood brown velvet ribbon, run through gold slides, closing in front under a gold buckle.

THE GREAT FIGHT INTERESTS MANY

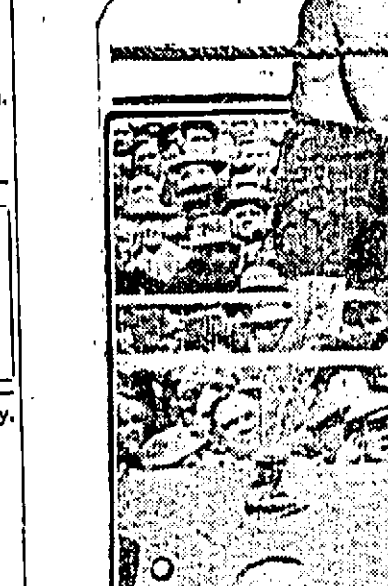

WILLIAM W. WATT WILL KEEP JANESVILLE FRIENDS IN TOUCH WITH HAPPENINGS.

RENO SCENES FIRST HAND

Former Janesville Alderman Writes From World's Great Fight Center on Conditions.

Janesville friends of William W. Watt and readers of The Gazette generally, are to be kept in close touch with the happenings at Reno through the medium of his letters which he has promised to send The Gazette. Mr. Watt is in the center of the great sporting circles of the world today, and his interesting pen pictures, which will be illustrated by cuts of the happenings in and about Reno, will add special interest to the coming pugilistic event.

Mr. Watt writes that if any of his Janesville friends are going to Reno to witness the big fight, if they write to him he will endeavor to find sleeping quarters for them but that even now, weeks in advance, everything is engaged. Reno promises to be the liveliest place on the American continent for the next few weeks and Mr. Watt will have graphic descriptions of the excitement.

His letters will be read with as much interest by The Gazette subscribers as will the accounts of Jack London, "Hal at the Ring," and other noted sporting writers who make a technical study of the fighting game. His letters will be full of human interest and the regular fight news will be furnished. The Gazette through the medium of the Associated Press and the United Press special news writers. Mr. Watt writes as follows:

Reno, Nevada, June 21.
Reno has gone right mad. As I found these lines the crowds are parading the streets headed by three bands and this evening, on the arrival of the fighters and their trainers from San Francisco, 10,000 shouts will be at the depot to greet them. The final announcement to the world selecting Reno as the battle ground on July Fourth, was made by Tex Rickard at the Golden Hotel here this noon. This afternoon over ten telegrams poured into the city addressed to the different hotel proprietors asking for room reservations for a period of from two days to two weeks.

The three only vacant stores in the city were immediately rented to outside parties, each store bringing $200 for one week.

The two telegraph companies have made arrangements to care for over 300 outside newspaper correspondents. It is estimated that the number of visitors will easily reach the 30,000 mark, while the fight promoters state that the crowd will reach near 40,000.

The different gambling houses here employ now about 1000 men in their employ of chance and one of the promoters informed this afternoon that they intended to double this force and run day and in fact the gambling houses are getting no less than a million dollars clear money between now and the close of the fight.

Interference on the part of Governor Dickenson is simply out of the question and the laws of the state of Nevada sanction prize fighting to the finish. If a million protests pour into the executive office they would be like pouring water on a duck's back. The coming fight has been "fixed" from the governor down to the local authorities and nothing but interference from President Taft will now block the game.

25TH ANNIVERSARY OF TRINITY CHOR
Boy's Vested Chorus of Episcopal Church Organized in 1885—One of Original Number Still a Member.
The vested boy's choir of Trinity church celebrates the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization this year. The choir was organized in 1885 by the Rev. Dr. Connelley, then rector of the parish, and ever since then they have taken part in every Sunday service at the church, except on the occasions when they are enjoying their annual outing.

This is the second vested choir of Trinity church the first being under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Durkin, and according to a picture of it taken in 1887, was composed of adult members, who were vested in white surplices reaching to the knees. Later an auxiliary choir of women joined the vested choir, until the rectorship of Rev. J. A. M. Hickey in 1895, the only member of the original choir, still in active service, is Harry E. Hanous, who is now the choir-master. He has been with the choir twenty-five years, never missing a service, except for sickness or because of the demands of business. The choristers give their services voluntarily, the only compensation they receive being a two weeks' outing at one of the lakes annually.

For fourteen years past they have enjoyed these outings and during that time no accident has occurred to mar the pleasure. This year it is planned to camp at Mirror Lake, Delta of the Wisconsin river.

Besides those in the picture, there are five other members in the choir: John Hartow, Henry A. Shoemaker, Allen Dearborn, Douglas Chapman, and Ernest Knapp.

MONTREAL AND QUEBEC
A veritable edition has been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System to proclaim amongst tourists the glories of the cities of Montreal and Quebec. The brochure is beautifully printed and generally arranged in the artistic style of earlier days, when the ornamentation of a volume was regarded as an important incident to its representation or reading matter. It gives an interesting description of the two most interesting cities in Canada, with many illustrations from photographs. Sent free to any address. Apply to H. G. Elliot, 917 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg., Chicago.

"Before I began using Cascarella's I had a bad complexion, pimples on my face, and my food was not digested as it should have been. MAN WHO SAVED HUNDREDS IN JANESVILLE FOR VISIT
C. & N. W. Engineer George Wilson Who Saved Burned Out Bridge in Time Formerly Lived Here.

George Wilson, the C. & N. It will be recalled that with a passenger train of ten coaches loaded with people bound for the Woodmen picnic, behind his engine, he was about to run onto a high bridge near Harlem when he discovered, just in time, that the structure was almost completely burned away.

LIVING ON A SINGLE FOOD

Can one live on a single food? Yes, if it contain all the elements necessary for nutrition. We all do it, for about a year usually, and many of the lower animals continue to do it, largely or entirely through life. The chamomile and others of the grass kind, the healthiest of all animals, live well on mountain grass and water. Many Arabs live long periods exclusively of dates, and they are noted for superior endurance. The woodchuck lives on grass and the tortoise attains a great age on watercresses. Men have lived many years on whole cereal bread and water, in better health than the average man on the average mixed diet. In case of sickness the "monodiet" often becomes necessary, and everyone can gain in health, in efficiency and in good feeling by approximating it, by avoiding the habit of excessive mixing of foods, which is so wasteful of vitality that it can be put to better use. The mixtures most to be avoided are those of foods digesting principally in stomach and intestine respectively—meat and milk, meat and rice, bread and fruit, for example.

Wisconsin's Greatest Land Sale

A Wonderful Opportunity For Settlers and Investors to Secure Rich Farm Land in America's Greatest Dairy State For

$0.50 TO $20 PER ACRE ON EASY TERMS

The enormous Wisconsin land holdings of the lumber interests are now on sale and are rapidly passing into the hands of settlers and far-sighted investors. These rich lands, comprising over 500,000 acres, have been thrown on the market by the American Immigration Company of Chicago Falls, Wis., at such low prices and on such easy terms that the whole country is aroused. The center of activity is in the famous Round Lake Country in Sawyer County, where 125,000 acres, the very cream of ROUND LAKE WISCONSIN FARM LANDS, is being cut up into farms.

The American Immigration Company owns the fee to all the lands they offer to sell.

The prices run from $0.50 to $20 per acre, depending on the value of the standing timber, location, etc.

The land is sold on ten year's time. The soil is rich and yields abundant crops. So much of this land has there is enough hardwood timber to pay for the farm. It is a country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water.

This is unquestionably the greatest cheap land opportunity of the century. Wisconsin land values are advancing by leaps and bounds.

The ROUND LAKE WISCONSIN FARM LANDS are going fast and the man who gets in at the ground floor price can make himself independent in five years. The time to act is NOW.

Free Books, Maps and full information may be secured by representatives of the local representative of the American Immigration Company.
